Variety selection can make a big difference in the success of a garden. The varieties listed here are some of the best ones from test plots. Seed companies (that correspond to the numbers following the variety) are listed on the last page of this fact sheet. There are many excellent varieties available from these and other seed companies. The exclusion of other varieties or seed companies in no way indicates that they are undesirable. *All American Selections (AAS) are varieties that have performed well in all areas of the country. Fruit, kernel, or tuber color is also specified in the list where appropriate.

NOTE: Numbers in parenthesis are estimated days to harvest. Consider them relative, not exact.
